Good News! First Rain In 95 Days Pours Down On Victoria

Rain, the first in 95 days, sent Victorians scurrying for cover yesterday as they left stores and offices on their way home. These pedestrians found shelter under a department store canopy while others used store awnings or folded newspapers as protection against unforecast rain. Although rain seemed heavy, less than an inch fell in four hours.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman.)

Eight-year-old Michael Pogue thought the rain was fun. Others, involved in traffic accidents or left groping in the dark, took more serious views of the downpour. Some 12,000 Vancouver Island loggers and millworkers also were glad to see the rain which may open forests.

Attractive Ann Prette took dim view of the rain which left hair-do's in shambles and didn't help glamour of fair-weather clothes.

"It never rains like this in Portland" was startled cry of two visitors to Victoria, Gladys Wood and Mickey Lynch. George I. Warren, Chamber of Commerce head, said however that rain was good for tourist trade, opens woods so people can fish.

Woodward Interests Buying Pandora Avenue Properties

By GORDON FORBES
Interests of Woodward Stores Ltd. have offered the city of Victoria a total of $150,000 for two lots of property on Pandora Avenue, it was learned unofficially yesterday.

It is believed the well known firm intends eventually to construct a department store on one site, and use the other as a parking lot, considered all-important to such enterprises. Both areas are city-owned.

The property on which Woodward's is expected to build a department store is on Pandora Avenue between Douglas and Blanshard Streets. Sum of $105,000 has been offered for this. The parking lot site is on Pandora between Blanshard and Quadra. It is now leased by a motor firm. The city has been offered $45,000 for this property.

The offer was considered last Friday morning at a secret meeting of the committee of the whole city council. It is understood the offer was accepted. The recommendation will come before council this afternoon.

This will make two Woodward stores in the city. A specialty store was opened recently on Douglas Street.

The site of the anticipated store has a 381-foot frontage on Pandora. Cormorant Street frontage is 200 feet and Blanshard 194 feet.

Sections of the property are being leased. A garage and large parking lot has a big section and a restaurant has a small piece. All the leases, however, can be terminated by the city on six months' notice. The city's health centre, situated at the west end of the property.

Approval of the recommendation for sale is considered a foregone conclusion because the whole council formed the committee which privately considered the offer.

Although not confirmed, it is believed Ker & Stephenson Ltd., Government Street, is negotiating the deal for interests of Woodward Stores Ltd.

This firm also handled negotiations for a subsidiary of Woodward's recently, when an offer was made for the Prince Robert House site. Finance committee recommended its sale for $48,000 but the council rejected it. Disposal of the property still hasn't been settled.

For this latest offer, the finance committee apparently didn't want to consider it alone. The whole council was called in—behind closed doors.

The $150,000 sale will give the city a much-needed financial shot in the arm. The money, however, cannot be applied to reduce the mill rate. It must go toward capital expenditure—such as a new city hall.

The new department store will greatly develop Pandora Avenue. The B.C. Electric plans to erect a large administrative building on Pandora across Blanshard from the proposed Woodward's store. This project has been postponed temporarily.

DATE UNCERTAIN
It could not be determined when Woodward's plans to start construction. There is a possibility it may be a considerable time, because of the difficulty in obtaining steel for anything but defense projects.

Acting Mayor Frank Mulliner, and several aldermen who apparently were bound to secrecy on the Woodward's deal, refused to comment yesterday.

Fall Session Said Likely

A special session of the British Columbia Legislature is expected to be called before Christmas to deal with old-age pension legislation.

Government sources appear unanimous that a pre-Christmas session is necessary in view of the importance of the pension legislation. The cabinet will submit its recommendations to the legislature for ratification.

It is understood some members don't favor the special session. The provincial government hasn't announced a decision on payment of the $10 monthly bonuses to recipients of old-age pensions. There is a strong belief, however, that the government will pay the bonus only to needy persons more than 70 years old.

TEST PROBLEM
The problem facing the government is what form of means test will be employed to make sure the additional $10 doesn't go to persons who don't need it.

Also pending is a decision on payment of pensions to needy persons in the 65-69 age group. Health Minister Douglas Turner has attended a conference of federal and provincial representatives on regulations pertaining to this group. Blindness allowance at the age of 21 was also discussed.

The legislature has already agreed in principle to the new federal old-age pension agreement under which the federal government assumes full responsibility.

Because of the universal pension, payable at 70 without means test, 50,000 more British Columbians will be eligible for pensions. This brings the total to $2,000.

SURPRISE PROPOSALS
Western sources are of the opinion Gromyko will explode a series of surprise maneuvers the moment President Truman has spoken on Tuesday night, or, at the latest, when the conference begins consideration of its rules of procedure next Wednesday morning.

Anticipation among Far East experts at U.N. is that Gromyko plans to aim his remarks and appeals primarily at the Asian nations, such as India, Burma, Indonesia, Indo-China, Communist China and the Communist elements in Japan.

Even Victoria's tourist trade chief was all smiles over yesterday's surprise rainfall.

"It will freshen up the Garden City," beamed George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"If it is sufficient to open up the woods we can count on more hunters and fishermen coming to the island," he said.

Four-Hour Rainfall May Open Forests

Ice-Wagon May Have Helped; Crew Disclaims Full Credit

By DAVE CHAMBERLAIN

Rain swirled through Victoria's streets for the first time in 95 days yesterday, plunging the city into darkness and causing a rash of minor traffic accidents and other disturbances.

But the four-hour downpour brought hopes of re-employment to 12,000 Vancouver Island loggers and mill workers. Farmers hoped their parched soil would absorb enough of the long-awaited rain to help late crops and next spring's growth.

Shoppers and city workers were caught unprepared by the sudden and unforeseen downpour. Unlucky pedestrians scurried for cover under awnings and store entrance canopies or protected their heads with folded newspapers.

BROLLEY BOOM
One downtown department store reported sale of 75 umbrellas within 20 minutes after the rain started. Streets were virtually deserted soon after 5 p.m. Buses were crowded to capacity by those who generally walked home from work.

Although the sun had not shone all day, clouds had been the rule for the past few days and no special significance was attached to them. No appreciable amount of rain had fallen on Victoria since parade-watching crowds were cheered May 21.

Members of the staff aboard the National Research Council's cloud-seeding "ice wagon" were reluctant to accept full credit for the downpour although they felt that their efforts yesterday afternoon may have hastened the rain and increased the volume.

The "ice wagon" was in the air from around noon until 2:45 p.m. and seeded clouds in both Vancouver and island regions.

NOT HEAVY
Although the rain was news enough to draw-out all other topics of conversation, the downpour was not exceptionally heavy. Only 83 inch of rain fell in the four hours.

The rain stopped about 8 p.m. and although no sunshine was recorded at the Gonzales Heights weather station, a brilliant sunset could be seen behind low-lying clouds.

No further rain was forecast by the weatherman and definite economic results cannot be determined until the accuracy of the forecasts is shown.

Although the ban on logging operations was still in force yesterday, E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests, indicated it would probably be lifted today. Other officials declined to comment until reports of the rain's effects in various parts of the island have been received.

PLAN RESUMPTION
However, two of the island's major logging concerns were making definite plans last night to resume logging operations today. The H. R. MacMillan Logging Company's Nanaimo River and Copper Canyon locations, employing about 425 men, were scheduled to begin operations. So were camps of the Comox Logging Company at Ladysmith and Nanaimo Lakes.

All logging in the Vancouver forest area, which includes Vancouver Island, have been halted.

Dirt, Rain Black Out Victoria

Yesterday's long-awaited downpour came as a shock to everyone—particularly employees of the Bay Street power substation.

Minutes after the rain started, the whole city was blacked out by a power failure which occurred at 4:05 p.m. Power in the downtown area was restored in about 12 minutes, but outlying residential areas went without electricity until about 5:15 p.m.

A short circuit occurred when rain-soaked smog deposits at the junction leading into the four big substation transformers caused 60,000 volts to arc across insulators.

A B.C. Electric spokesman said a bright two-foot flash sparked across the insulator for several minutes. More than 30 B.C.E. and Hume & Rumble linemen climbed over the network of high-voltage equipment to clean away the dirt from the insulators.

Caddy enough, B.C.E. officials had planned to shut off power yesterday about 5:30 p.m. in order to scrub down the insulators.

"This shut-down was definitely not planned," said an official yesterday.

He explained that the long dry spell plus heavy smog and ash deposits had built up a thick layer of dirt on the insulators, the dirt acted as a conductor.

"The weather has created a very unusual condition," he said.

Reds Will Renew Talks If U.N. Admits Blame

TOKIO, Aug. 28 (Tuesday) (AP)—The top Communist commanders offered today to resume the Korean truce talks if the United Nations command would reinvestigate and proclaim to the world its responsibility for an alleged bombing incident at Kaesong August 22.

The Reds broke off the stalled talks August 23, alleging an Allied plane tried to "murder" the Communist negotiators.

There was no immediate response from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander to whom the Red message was directed.

He already had rejected their charges as lies.

A high officer at Ridgway's headquarters pointed out:

"If General Ridgway accedes to the enemy demand to reinvestigate that bombing incident, he will have to eat his own words, for he has already declared the whole affair absolutely false. I don't think Ridgway will do it—unless he receives definite instructions from higher up."

Another military authority said "I feel sure now that the Reds began this armistice talks business for the sole purpose of building up their army for a big attack. They were buying time, I think, and by now they have had just about all they need."

The statement by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai was broadcast early today by the Peiping radio.

The Red conditions were so harsh that it appeared the future of the truce talks remained critically imperiled but that the Communists were not yet ready to take responsibility for cancelling them finally.

Before the broadcast of the newest Communist message, Ridgway made a secret flight to Korea Monday, spent three hours and 45 minutes at advanced U.N. headquarters there and hastened back to Tokyo.

Premier Plans Campaign Role

Premier Byron Johnson will take an active part in the Esquimalt bye-election campaign.

On his return from Ottawa yesterday, he said he will be "going campaigning." He hasn't fully recovered from the injury he received last year in a car accident, but no longer uses crutches.

The premier couldn't announce the date of the bye-election, explaining it can't be definitely set until after nomination day.

Three Days Underground

Flood-Caught Explorers Rescued From Cavern

ABERCRAVE, Wales, Aug. 27 (AP)—A chain of 85 men pulled two explorers to safety tonight from a flooded underground Welsh cave where they had been trapped for three days. The explorers were unhurt.

The two men had been prisoners since Saturday morning deep inside the cavern of Ogof Ffynhdu near here. A sudden rainstorm sent tons of water down the Byfyrre river and blocked all exits from the cave, situated in Glamorganshire about 25 miles northeast of Swansea.

A team of deep-sea divers plunged through the stream to reach the explorers. There was no sign of life inside the cave until one hour before the rescue.

Then faint shouts appeared to indicate the men were alive.

When the explorers—Lewis Rallion, 40, and William Little, 30—were located, the human chain was formed through the swift underground waters. The rescuers grasped the pair and yanked them to safety.

The men had found safety in a high chamber deep inside the cavern. They said they had found food in a tin box and had huddled around their one acetylene lamp while waiting for the flood waters to subside.

P.G.E. Link Facing Delay

Pacific Great Eastern Railway's Vancouver-Squamish link is facing indefinite postponement.

This was indicated yesterday by Premier Byron Johnson on his return from talks at Ottawa.

The Premier was told there is no steel available for anything but defense construction.

Bus Makes Own Sandwich

B.C. Electric bus above sandwiched itself neatly between two houses on Cedar Hill Road yesterday after it went out of control and skidded about 100 feet, finally making sharp right-angle turn between buildings. Occupants of vehicle

Roller Derby Theft Victim

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 27 (INS)—Police were told today that safecrackers made off with $16,000, the entire weekend's receipts of the roller derby in Long Beach.

Victoria's Wet Streets Bring Rash of Accidents

Rain-soaked streets in the Greater Victoria area Monday sent city and Saanich police to a flurry of accidents.

City police charged one man with drunk driving and a woman was sent to Royal Jubilee Hospital for a check-up on minor injuries.

Mrs. Audrey Danks, 3943 Telegraph Road, went to hospital after a collision between a car driven by her husband, John H. Danks, and another driven by George H. Edgar, 2789 Foul Bay Road, in the 800 Block Fort.

One of the cars had stopped and the second vehicle collided with its rear end.

HEAVY DAMAGE
Heavy damage resulted from an accident at Dunedin and Gorge when cars driven by Lynn W. Burdick, of Vancouver, Wash., and Johnnie Wong, 401 Dunedin, collided.

The car of another visitor, Olin A. Anderson, of Seattle, received medium damage in a collision at Cook and Vista Heights. Other driver involved was Charles T. Nelson, 1466 Edgeware Road.

Most spectacular accident of the day was one involving a B.C. Electric Co. bus on Cedar Hill Road.

Saanich police said the bus skidded about 100 feet, hit a tree, veered to the right and finally stopped in between two houses after demolishing a wheelbarrow on a lawn.

Driver was William Neilson, 851 Broughton. He and his three passengers escaped injury. Police praised Neilson's quick thinking in avoiding a more serious mishap.

Selling of Cat Food Halted by Overhead

A $60-a-year license to sell horsemeat for cats was too much for vendor W. H. Smith.

Mr. Smith had been in business two days when he was informed by sanitary inspector Elwood S. Groppe that his license would come to $60 a year.

"It's fantastic," said Mr. Smith. "I'm a cripple, I can't work long hours and I figure I couldn't have made more than $75 a month out of the business. I worked for eight years as

The Vancouver tug Jorgie, owned and skippered by Capt. Alfred B. Jorgenson, ran onto Fulford Reef, near Discovery Island, about 1.45 a.m. Sunday but was refloated by 3 p.m. that day.

She was refloated at high tide with assistance of the Island Planet, of Island Tug & Barge Ltd. The scow did not ground.

Smith, who was for 33 years a Victoria fireman, was born in London and borrowed the cat food idea from peddlers he used to see as a child.

"I cooked the horsemeat carefully under sanitary conditions, weighed it and sold so much on a skewer," he said. "It was very popular and I know the

B.C. Recruiting Deferred

Policy on Compensation For Civil Defense Urged

Framing of a policy on compensation for injured civil defense workers was urged in Ottawa last week by Percy Richards, executive assistant to Premier Byron Johnson and a member of the provincial civil defense committee.

Mr. Richards conferred with Dr. George Davidson, deputy minister of national health and welfare. He said he would take Mr. Richards' representations to the minister, Hon. Paul Martin.

The premier's assistant emphasized that a policy on compensation must stem from federal authorities. He explained that lack of a policy was deterring British Columbia's civil defense recruiting.

The matter of radio communication during attack also was discussed with Dr. Davidson. Mr. Richards pointed out that there

Colorful, Rugged Leader Makes Canadians Tough

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Aug. 27 (CP). — From Army Commander James Van Fleet as far down the line as one cares to carry it, one never hears about just "the Canadians."

It's "those aggressive Canadians." The tone is one of envy among U.N. commanders whose troops are being outdone in the line.

It is one of amazement among troops thoroughly weary of the whole business and astonished that with the possibilities inherent in Kaesong "the guys go on attacking their necks out."

In large part they do so because they have come to reflect the enthusiasm of their commander, Brig. John Meredith Rockingham of Vancouver.

KEY INFLUENCES
Brig. Rockingham's enthusiasm for war and the keenness with which he identifies himself with it to the minutest detail and the fighting of the smallest sub-unit—certainly have been the dominating influences in the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade group.

The men know him and like him. In operations he's seldom far from the middle, and often forward of the command post. He has been known to go to the forward company and on occasion even to the forward section to see how things are going and, often, to make suggestions.

He scales apparently-impassable mountain trails in his jeep, and when the trails give out makes his way on foot to the infantry he wants to see. But he always gets there—even if it means picking up bullets in his tires and taking prisoners on the way. He has done both.

The troops love it. "Rocky's here," the word goes around, and the tension or fatigue of the moment seems less acute. If the troops love it, the battalion commanders frankly don't.

They're running the show, and are personally responsible for it. Hence they are bound to their command posts, where they can co-ordinate the operation.

Yet they are conscious of the men's reaction: "We always see the brigadier when we're in action, but where's the C.O.?"

Not that command posts are so far back, incidentally. But even at the C.P., the brigadier has been known to be seen.

Some of the men have a battle as to take it over holus bolus. There was one in particular in which he was running the infantry, his chief gunner ranging for the artillery and his chief signals officer doing the air liaison work with aircraft putting in an air strike.

A battalion commander whose troops were slugging over difficult hilly country, sweeping it for Chinese, had kept them going with the goal of being the first United Nations troops to effect a link-up as their incentive.

A U.N. armored force had struck deep into Chinese territory, dug itself in and waited, impregnable, until advancing infantry could reach it.

The Canadians were about to start on the last leg of the gap when the brigadier heard the way was open, cheerfully got into a jeep in the enthusiasm of the moment and personally effected the link-up.

It's sure-hard on the colonels. But the same technique paid well when he commanded the 9th Infantry Brigade in Europe during the Second World War.

Said Col. Roger Rowley of Ottawa, soon to be director of military training at Canadian army headquarters, during a recent visit to the brigade: "He chased me across half of Europe during the war," and now, by gosh, he's had me climbing Korean hills."

It recalled a Second World War story that Brig. Rockingham was walking through the woods—supposedly cleared of Germans—to one of his battalion headquarters when he was shot at.

Instead of falling flat, he turned and charged the enemy gunpost with his Tommy gun. He killed two Germans and took a third prisoner.

It wasn't until the divisional commander told reporters about it that incident came to light. Then all Brig. Rockingham said about it was: "It was just a matter of self-preservation. They were shooting at me, so I shot back."

First Trolley On Last Run
EDMONTON, Aug. 27 (CP). — Old No. 1 is being prettied up for Edmonton's last street car run Saturday. On that day conversion to modern trolley coaches and buses, started before the Second World War, will be completed.

The ancient No. 1, still in good mechanical condition after traveling more than 1,500,000 miles on city tracks, made the first run when street cars started operating here in 1908.

The proposed charges, which the railways want made effective Oct. 1, would apply on telegrams within Canada, not including Newfoundland. Newfoundland telegraph rates now are higher than those of the rest of Canada.

Oddities
SMYRNA, N.Y., Aug. 27 (AP). — A barber has been clipping hair for 50 years—at 25 cents a head. John Widger says he has never charged more than the rock-bottom price since he set up shop.

"I see no reason to change," Widger says. "I made a good living 50 years ago and I'm making a good living now."

But there is a 15½-hour-a-day gimmick—Widger works from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., with only a half-hour off for lunch and a catnap.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (Reuters). — Pat O'Leary is worried for fear his sore foot won't heal in time to allow him to dance at his birthday party, Sept. 12. He'll be 102.

Pat says he likes to put on his tuxedo and his old pumps and go dancing four or five nights a week. He hasn't a steady partner—the girls just claim him.

As it is now, he has to stay home all the time, listening to "that dratted radio."

But dancing or not, his birthday party will be a gay one. "My 100th almost killed me," he said.

U.S. Priest Kidnapped, Robbed at Sword-Point

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27 (INS). — A former church janitor kidnapped a St. Louis priest at sword-point today and fled with $1,600 in church collections.

Rev. Lawrence C. Nebberich, acting pastor of St. James' Catholic Church, was found tied up in his car in a parking lot in East St. Louis, Ill.

He told police a former St. James' janitor entered his room early this morning and threatened him with a long sword—a souvenir recently found in the church rectory.

The man forced the priest to accompany him to the church and turn over a sack containing Sunday's receipts. Then, still at the point of the sword, the priest was forced to drive his car over a Mississippi River bridge to the East St. Louis parking lot.

Bitter Economic War Seen New Soviet Plan

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Russia's second front in the cold war now appears to have become its main one, and the West can look for the Soviets to wage bitter economic warfare.

This seems to be the story behind that fiery blast Friday in the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, which, coupled with other indications in the Soviet press, gives promise of a major economic offensive tied in with overall Soviet propaganda aims.

Izvestia announced that Russia's satellites would have "the mighty support of the U.S.S.R." to break through the economic restrictions imposed by the West at American urging.

"He chased me across half of Europe during the war," and now, by gosh, he's had me climbing Korean hills."

Two Canadians Identify Soldier at Death Scene

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 27 (CP). — Two Canadian soldiers today identified Pte. Glen Roland Blank, 27, of Winnipeg, as one of several British and Canadian troops who visited a farmhouse where three South Korean soldiers were killed by a grenade blast last March 17.

Blank is being tried by a Canadian general court-martial for the death of one of the South Koreans, Lieut. E.E. Chong Sung. Two other privates of the Princess Patricia's, Donald Gibson, 22, Ottawa, and Alan Davis, 24, of Vancouver, are also charged with murder in the deaths of the three South Koreans. They are being tried separately.

The two Canadians who testified today have been exonerated of blame for the events which took place in the Korean farmhouse near Chipyong. They said that they were present at the farmhouse.

Pte. J. C. Dietzer of the Princess Patricia's said Blank was sitting in the front seat of the jeep on the return trip to camp. He said he thought he heard someone ask Blank why he threw the grenade. The witness said Blank replied something to the effect that he thought the Koreans in the room were Communists. He said the question was repeated later and this time Blank denied having thrown the grenade.

Dietzer said he did not see anyone throw a grenade or fire a weapon. Pte. B. T. Hegans also of the Patricia's, testified he looked into the house and saw a soldier grappling with one of two Korean girls there.

It's Necessary--Or It's Not

WHY the B.C. Government should stop to fly a kite over the question of a special session to enact old-age pension legislation is a mystery. Either the special session is necessary, or it is not. If the agreement with the Dominion, new provincial legislation and more especially provincial appropriations to finance a joint pension plan cannot wait until February, then another session of the B.C. Legislature is the only course. If these matters can wait no extra session would be needed. Whatever are the government's views on the matter, it should have come out with them straight from the shoulder, instead of this hesitant intimation.

Actually, the government has some reason for the delay which has ensued on pension matters. To begin with the federal government only recently made up its mind as to what part it would play. The B.C. Legislature had risen before Ottawa acted, so that there was no opportunity to vote the express funds that this province might require under any joint pension scheme in the first three months of next year. Since the Dominion is putting its pension plan into effect on January 1, 1952, the province must be in position by then to say what it will do. This could be achieved by advancing the regular session of 1952 into this year, or by holding a special session as now suggested in "informed quarters."

There are two decisions which this province must make and soon. One is the question of the $10 bonus which B.C. pays outside of the federal allowance. The other is what stand this province will take on the issue of pensions to those between 65 and 69 years, where B.C. would require to find half of the cost. These issues concern treasury votes and should be submitted by the government to the legislature for action there. If a special session is going to be held, the government should say now that it will be a two-day or three-day affair without any double indemnity to the 48 members of the House in this year.

Law of Diminishing Returns

COUPLED with Mr. Rinfret's efforts to reduce postal service in Canada and have that little cost more, the current move by both transcontinental railways to increase the cost of telegraphic transmission to Canadian business would be a retrogressive step. Anything that operates against a broadening and improving chain of communications strikes directly against this country and everyone in it. Whether that is brought about by boosting the postage rate on third-class mail matter or by adding a cent a word to the cost of telegrams, the result will be the same. Such a step is the more remarkable at a time when the tempo of business is being stepped up.

In the present instance, the railways have applied to the Transport Board for the suggested increase, asking that it go into effect October 1. Part of their argument is that no increase in telegraph rates has been sought since July, 1949—two whole years ago—and that, meanwhile, the cost of handling wire messages has increased. The cent a word increase would be pro-rated over the different types of day and night wires and wire-letters, with higher minimum charges and fewer words for the dollar over the same distances.

Unfortunately for the railways, telegraph offices do not occupy precisely the same place today they did even 10 years ago. Since then airmail and the telephone have become decided competitors in this class of communication. Prodigious new business is done over the long distance telephone today than ever before in Canada. The same trend is true of airmail, which carries long, statistical reports at close to the delivered speed of a telegram. Where this is the case, and visibly it is, the railways may find any further boosting of telegraph tolls reacting sharply against the volume of wire traffic handled. The law of diminishing returns begins to apply the brakes when the public feels that service is being effectively curtailed.

Hymn Tunes Too High

A NEW ZEALAND bishop, Rt. Rev. R. H. Owen, has put his finger on a fault in hymn tunes of which most male churchgoers are only too well aware. The tunes, he says, are pitched at absurd heights so far beyond the normal range of male and even female vocal cords that hymn singing is being ruined. According to Bishop Owen the throats of men are not made to produce sounds that could even approximate the heights laid down in the edition of ancient and modern hymns in universal use.

Husbands, fathers and bachelors all over the Christian world have waited a long time for someone in authority to point that out. With the exception of the rosy tenors for whom high notes provide a chance to shine, few men attending church find the singing within the scope of their voices. They may manage after a fashion with passages in the lower registers but either relapse into uncomfortable silence on the high notes or else make untrained attempts to transpose the tune to a lower key, often with effects bordering on the ludicrous which rob the singing of dignity.

This is regrettable, because most men like to sing, as the bathtubs at home and the barracks rooms and route marches of wartime can bear witness. The fine old hymns of the churches could and should afford men as well as women an outlet for vocal talents, but when the tunes are pitched beyond male reach many men are discouraged from opening their mouths in the praise and thanksgiving which hymns are written to express.

Singing in unison is a companionship which in church cannot be complete when men are excluded from it by vocal limitations. Church authorities, disturbed over decreasing attendances, might well ponder that aspect of the matter. Many more men would be likely to become regular church attendants if they could sing there without embarrassment.

GORGE ZONING

Sir,—In your issue of last Friday, Mr. P. J. Sinnott had a letter in which he attempted to give a good reason for the industrialization of Victoria West and there are one or two points in his letter which are worthy of consideration. He states that Victoria West has long since ceased to be a residential district, which will come as a surprise to over 600 property owners in the district. He states that the majority of the houses are of ancient vintage, which will also be a surprise to over 50 per cent of the home owners who have built their houses within the past ten years.

He states that the property he wishes to be rezoned is suitable only for industrial use, which will also be a surprise to the home owners on that waterfront.

These vague generalities of our learned friend will be quite insufficient to persuade the residents of Victoria West to stand idly by and see their pleasant streets torn up, their waterfront destroyed and their property values cut in two in order that profits may be made by a privileged few who live somewhere else.

PRINCE ROBERT HOUSE

Sir,—Every once in a while the Robert House is up for discussion. For several years I was connected with the Navy League in Victoria and regarded Robert House as a very nice haven for servicemen and ex-servicemen to spend their leisure hours when they were in town. I'm sure a great number of these men have missed their favorite rendezvous since the place was closed to the public last March 15. The City Fathers should never have let the Navy League leave the premises. They should have deeded the property to them and let them carry on the good work they had been doing until they were forced to leave. As it is now, the place is vacant and will remain thus for quite a spell, too. First of all, the City Fathers expect too much for the property, it hasn't got the value they seek. Mr. Mooney is right. The place can be made serviceable again with a few alterations. To tear the place down for a parking lot is a lot of nonsense. You don't need a parking lot there when there are loads of them around, mostly vacant. I've lived in Victoria since 1943, and it is no more difficult to find a parking space as it was then. If parking is so short, why don't we see some of these private parking lots built up to accommodate more cars, as the parking lot on Broughton and Courtney Street, next door to the General Electric building and Windermere Hotel. If there is so much money in parking lots why don't they build elevators on that lot, and accommodate all and maybe more than the Prince Robert House site would. The access to the Robert House lot is very poor.

My suggestion for the Robert House is to turn it over to some organization to do good deeds. As a matter of thought, maybe Mrs. Green could make great use of it as her headquarters. The place could be made available to all ages. Any time some organization is willing to take it over, I'd be pleased to come forward and give them a hand to make it a success.

PRINCE ROBERT HOUSE

Sir,—Recent suggestions regarding the use of Prince Robert House as a recreation centre prove that it might be very much more valuable as a public building than as a mere parking lot, net proceeds of which would amount to very little after demolition costs, parking lot construction and upkeep were deducted. One other suggestion for consideration would be that the building be used as the headquarters of the Girl Guides, or some other such valuable youth movement. Even were it used only for its halls and lecture rooms it would be useful, as it is often difficult to find a suitable central place for meetings, etc.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE only way to avoid growing old is to die young, but of course the urge that causes man to seek an elixir of life also persuades him to dodge this alternative if he can.

A new branch of medical science, geriatrics, has come into being, according to a radio talk I heard recently. It has to do with the problems of old age, not precisely in the manner of Ponce de Leon, who searched without luck for the fountain of youth, but along scientific medical lines. It seeks to illuminate age by studying the factors that cause people to become elderly.

You don't grow old all of a piece, you see. Actually you start to grow old the day you are born, and there's no stopping the process. But it's not a uniform growth.

A man at fifty may have a thirty-year heart but a forty-year liver—and trying to live like a twenty-year-old.

You're as old as you feel, they say, but that depends. Feeling is deceiving, and the important thing is how you've lived your years. That is why your liver may let you down even if your stomach never knew an ulcer. You are like an automobile, whose windshield may be perfect while its exhaust pipe is exhausted. Only you can't get a new part for yourself quite so easily as you can for your car.

Diet has a lot to do with aging, because of its effect on the various organs of the inner man. Most of us know this, or sense it, even if we've never spoken to a doctor, but few of us do much about it. A man will treasure some possession, keep it intact and free from harm, yet let his physical self run down without a qualm. At least the qualm generally comes a bit late.

Sooner or later, however, everybody gets old, and age presents fresh problems. They become mental more than medical, it seems. They are related to hobbies, and keeping the mind and hands occupied. Old people need an active interest as much as they do medicine.

The radio talk didn't touch on that point, but I suppose it is lack of incentive, meaning lack of compulsion, that's the big drawback. A man may have half a dozen hobbies or interests to amuse him when he has all day to devote to them, yet nothing to compel his pursuit of these diversions. All through life, in fact, most of us might just dawdle if we weren't forced by economic circumstances to put our noses to the grindstone. And dawdling, while delightful, isn't the way to keep young.

The mind, as you know, is the boss of the body, and so an alert mental state helps to keep the rest of you in good trim. In later years this is best achieved if a person devotes as much zeal to the preoccupation of his retirement as he did to his daily avocation.

Remembering that few people manage to reach this happy mean in after life, perhaps the current philosophy of early retirement is not in tune with what the science of geriatrics is discovering. It takes unusual self-discipline to avoid being lazy when you don't have to turn out for the usual day's work.

In any case, though it would appear that since there's no escape from growing old, we should watch our step on the way. That's what the radio talk implied. I gather, and it sounded like commonsense.

Reporting From Ottawa

THIS CITY'S physical shortcomings as a world capital are bringing wrinkles of worry to the face of Herbert Moran as he lays plans for housing, feeding and entertaining some 500 people expected to attend the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council meeting here.

Arrangements for the N.A.T.O. meeting are the responsibility of this 43-year-old assistant deputy foreign minister. They call into play all the experience he acquired as our army's director of organization for the Sicilian invasion, and later as Canadian colonel in charge of administration in north-western Europe.

For example, neither of Ottawa's two first-class hotels is large enough to accommodate all the N.A.T.O. people and news correspondents. Moran will have to split them into two groups—and he foresees bitter complaints.

The conference opens September 15—which means the visitors, including up to 33 cabinet ministers of foreign countries—will be in Ottawa over the week-end. What to do to entertain them on Sunday is another Moran headache.

Most of the 12 N.A.T.O. countries will send their foreign, defense and finance ministers to the meeting—the first council session since January and the first ever held in Canada. They and their scores of advisers will stay at the Chateau Laurier, which is being cleared for the occasion of all but permanent guests.

The council sessions will be held in the Parliament Building, behind closed doors—as Foreign Minister Pearson once quipped: "Open covenants secretly arrived at." But in reality there may be no firm decisions on important questions made at this four or five-day meeting. Informed Ottawa sources anticipate that instead the sessions will be devoted to exchanging views on mutual problems, with final decisions being postponed until the council meets in Rome in October.

No agenda has yet been prepared.

But it's a safe bet that among the matters to be discussed will be the proposed admission of Greece and Turkey to the defensive union, how the N.A.T.O. countries can increase their forces to counteract the Russian threat in Europe, and how the cost of maintaining a N.A.T.O. army, navy and air force in the European area should be split among the N.A.T.O. countries.

Delegates will converge on Ottawa by plane, ship and train from the capitals of the 11 other N.A.T.O. countries, from United Nations headquarters at New York, and from the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference at San Francisco. It will be the largest N.A.T.O. meeting ever held, for never before has there been a joint session of foreign, defense and finance ministers.

The government will entertain the delegates at a reception, various embassies will entertain in honor of their ministers, and Ottawa's bars will be popular rendezvous for advisers and newspapermen, that is, except on Sunday. How to counteract the initial depression of an Ottawa Sunday is one of Moran's chief problems, for the government, proud to be host, doesn't want its guests to return to Paris, London, Brussels, Rome and other centres of gracious living firmly determined never to agree to another meeting in Ottawa.

One suggestion was for Ottawa to seek special dispensation from Queen's Park to operate a cocktail lounge in the Parliament Building for the duration of the conference, including Sunday. But it won't. After the June 25 by-elections, the government feels it's already sufficiently unpopular with the voters without risking the displeasure of the temperance vote with a bar in Parliament.

A Few Words

ANYBODY who attends public luncheons, dinners and similar events will agree that the greatest hazard does not lie in the speech itself, but in the introduction of the speaker.

The frenzied applause which so often greets the Distinguished Visitor does not reflect his audience's pleasure at the fact that he is about to speak, but rather its relief at the fact that the chairman has finished speaking.

Just why it should take so long to introduce a speaker, no one has ever found out. It seems to be part of the ritual. The Distinguished Visitor will not be allowed to say his piece to the Podunk Literary and Athletic Club

Club until the chairman has made an exhaustive survey of Podunk's glorious past, prosperous present, and radiant future; attacked the Government's hog marketing policy; misquoted a substantial portion of Gray's Elegy; related (with a quick look around for clerical collars) the latest adventure of Pat and Mike; and given a detailed account, as flatteringly as inaccurate, of the Distinguished Visitor's birth, upbringing and subsequent career.

Now, the chairmen have been struck a cruel blow. Word has gone forth from Ottawa that official speeches of welcome to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh should not exceed one hundred words.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

They settle the housing problem quicker in other countries. Some 600,000 East Coast landlords were recently executed.

QUESTION

A French dramatic author had been requested by a Paris radio station to write a dialogue for a Biblical episode. He was greatly surprised when at the end of the first part he heard the announcer exclaim: "Will Cain kill Abel? Dear listeners: Tune in next Sunday at the same hour to the second part of our program and you will learn it."

The Packsack

While Visiting in Britain

EVERY time you take a slice of bread in hand, think, think upon England. When you sit down to your first meal in Britain today, they set a basket of rolls before you. They are conventional little rolls, slightly smaller than the Canadian. Canadian fashion, you pick one while they bring your order.

You give it a tweak. Hum! You tighten your grip and give a twist. No use. You examine it, as you would an oyster, to find a chink in it. In the chink, if any, you insert your thumb nails and pry.

It breaks. The shell or crust is like that of a butternut. Inside, there is a greishy mass that does, in fact, remind you again of an oyster. You feel it with your finger tips. It is damp.

You break off a piece of one of the halves in your hand, and, cautiously removing the dough so that no one will observe you, you pop the section of crust or shell into your mouth. You clench with your teeth.

No go. You shove it over into your cheek, in the hope of letting it rest there a few minutes to soften up.

You can always spot a Canadian or American in a London dining-room by the fact that he is sitting at his table with a large lump in one cheek, while an expression of incredulity and dismay plays upon his face.

Before I come home, I am going to find out how the natives eat their bread. Either they have far better teeth than we have, or else they have no teeth at all and have mastered the art of swallowing these jagged and horny crusts unchewed, like sword-swallowers.

Thames Swans

WASHINGTON, D.C.—England's pet swans on the Thames rate a press that many a movie star might envy.

Even when they get a bath it's news, as happened lately when more than 60 of the birds were given a shore shampoo after ship's oil and bilge had discolored their snowy plumage.

Earlier in the year, a note of emergency marked still another report of mass swan scrubbing by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. A number of swans had been contaminated by tar flowing into the river at Oxford. The shampooing was administered at urgent speed, lest the birds, in cleaning themselves, should die from eating the sticky substance.

Each July the Thames is the scene of a tradition ceremony known as swan-upping, notes the National Geographic Society. For days a flag-decked procession of skiffs cruises upstream from London carrying brightly costumed swan masters. Their job is to up, or lift the swans out of the river, and mark new ones with the proper symbol of ownership.

In accordance with centuries-old custom, the Thames swans belong only to the King and to two of London's ancient guilds, the Dyers' and Vintners' Companies.

The King's swans are unmarked, a reminder of the time when no subject could own the royal bird without license from the Crown. Each of the two companies still uses its own swanmark. A penknife nick on the right side of the beak distinguishes the Dyers' swans; nicks on each side of the beak indicate those of the Vintners'.

There are now 600 or more swans on the Thames. Ownership of each season's additional crop of cygnets, or young, follows the mark of the brood's parents. In cases of mixed mating, the offspring are divided as evenly as possible between the owners of the parents.

Britain's common domesticated swan, so familiar on the Thames and other rivers, ponds and canals, is the Mute species—Cygnus olor to the naturalist. It is pure white and has a long slender neck and knob at the base of the bill. The species is without voice, or almost so, in its tame or semi-tame state. Occasionally, especially during the breeding season, it is said to give a barking snort, rattle, and hiss. Graceful as they are, these birds, with their strong wings and beaks, make formidable fighters when aroused.

The wild Mute swan is believed to have been domesticated in England since the 12th century or earlier.

How Clear She Shines

I'll think, there's not one world above,
Far as these straining eyes can see,
Where wisdom ever laughed at love,
Or virtue crouched to infamy;
Where, writhing 'neath the strokes of fate,
The mangled wretch was forced to smile.

To match his patience 'gainst her hate,
His heart rebellious all the while;
Where pleasure still will lead to wrong,
And helpless reason warm in vain;
And truth is weak, and treachery strong;

And joy the surest path to pain;
And peace, the lethargy of grief;
And hope, a phantom of the soul;
And life, a labour, void and brief;
And death, the despot of the whole.

Oregon Democrats, meeting yesterday at Salem, entered the name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower provisionally as their candidate for U.S. president in next May's primary election. Republicans of the state are trying to get him on their ballot, too.

Under Oregon law, a prospective candidate's permission is not needed to place his name on the primary ballot.

B.C. Reporters Tour Arvida Plant To Get Preview of Kitimat's Future

By LAWRIE JOSLIN
Colonist Staff Reporter

ARVIDA, Que., Aug. 27—A preview of what Kitimat may develop into in the future was given eight British Columbia newspapermen today when the Aluminum Company of Canada took them on a tour of their giant smelter here.

The plant, which produces 1,000 tons of aluminum ingot a day, is a mile and a half long, nearly a mile wide and has 26 miles of standard-gauge railway to handle raw materials and finished products within its gates.

A high degree of efficient mechanization underlies Arvida's high output from the time British Guiana bauxite is received at the plant through the various refining processes until aluminum ingots emerge for export.

CUT IN HALF

At Kitimat the operation now going on here will be cut in half. Instead of beginning the process with bauxite it will begin with alumina, end product of the first stage of refinement. Alumina is a free-running white powder in comparison with clay-like bauxite.

A plant is now being built in Jamaica to refine bauxite to alumina for shipment to Kitimat. Guided by a nucleus of key personnel from Arvida, it is estimated that untrained B.C. labor will be able to operate the alumina melting pots at Kitimat efficiently within three months.

B.C. labor is also going to benefit from the construction of the Kitimat plant.

Today's tour took newspapermen to Port Alfred, Arvida's seaport, about 30 miles down the Saguenay towards the St. Lawrence.

BUFFY PORT

During the seven months of the year when the Saguenay is free of ice, three ships a day deliver the raw materials necessary for Arvida production. A 10,000-ton ship can be unloaded in 10 hours. Last year the port handled 2,800,000 tons of import and export commodities.

Ships unload raw materials at one main wharf at Port Alfred and then load aluminum ingot and paper from mills in the surrounding district at a second wharf.

Kitimat will be its own seaport. For this reason and because numerous surrounding towns house many of the Arvida employees, Kitimat is expected to become larger than Arvida.

Arvida has a population of 11,000, with 6,000 employees working in the plant. Port Alfred has a population of 4,000.

At a dinner tonight in honor of the B.C. party, McNeely Dubose, vice-president of Alcan, said he looked for great development in the Kitimat region. He based his belief on population growth of the Saguenay Valley in the immediate vicinity of Arvida by 50,000 since 1926, when Arvida first began to boom.

Referring to the vast but sparsely populated Saguenay Valley, Mr. Dubose promised that Alcan will carry out a similar, orderly and non-wasteful development of natural resources in Kitimat area.

Island Dairymen Seek Quick Ruling

Island dairymen will go along with the B.C. Milk Board, at least for a time, unlike Fraser Valley farmers who have voted to go directly to the cabinet for a 40 per cent increase in the price of milk.

A. C. Lambick, president of the Vancouver Island Dairy- men's association, said he had confidence in the milk board to give a fair decision but it would have to be quick.

"The situation is desperate," he said, "something has got to be done soon or many of the dairy farmers will lose heart altogether."

Vancouver Island dairymen applied recently to the board for an increase in producers' price on the grounds that it cost $1.72 more to produce 100 pounds of milk than the $5 they were now receiving.

First Rain in 95 Days May Lift Forest Closure

since July 12, with an estimated cost in lost lumber, wages and other factors of more than $35,000,000.

Rain has also helped to control 134 B.C. forest fires, nine of which started yesterday. Heavy fog combined with the rain to assist fire-fighters in the East Sooke fire, now officially under control, and the Cowichan Lake fire.

PERMITS ISSUED
 Permits for outdoor burning of refuse were issued yesterday.

afternoon by Victoria and Oak Bay fire departments. Saanich and Esquimalt will begin issuing them this morning.

Slippery streets and unwary driver, helped to account for a rash of automobile accidents which began shortly after the rain started.

Fire departments were also kept busy answering calls to attend to broken power wires which fell along and across many Greater Victoria streets. Repairs were made by B.C. Electric Co. crews.

Other troubles from the sudden downpour were minor. City crews were called to clear some clogged sewer drains and the city fire department to pump water from the roof of the Yates Street Bowldrome, where clogged drain-pipes had caused water to collect.

RAIN TOO LATE
 Consensus of agricultural experts was that the rainfall was too late to help much with summer crops, although pastures and commercial vegetables will benefit.

Main value of the rain was said to be its ground-softening effect which would aid in plowing and other preparations for late seeding. Next year's berry crops will also benefit.

Rainfall was felt only on the southern parts of Vancouver Island. Comox received only a trace. Nanaimo had 31 inch of rain and Duncan approximately half an inch. On the mainland, Vancouver received .64 inch. Rainfall was general in the interior and south into the Puget Sound area.

May Combine Firm Pensions With New Plan

VANCOUVER, Aug. 27 (CP)—Company pension schemes may be merged with the new old-age federal plan, Arthur Laing, member of Parliament for Vancouver South, said tonight in an interview.

He said a statement of policy is expected soon from Health Minister Paul Martin.

"Payment to everyone of a basic $30 a month at 70 poses a new set of circumstances," said Mr. Laing.

Many corporations have already applied to combine the company and government plans. The new federal plan, he said, will provide a "floor" for private pension schemes.

At present there are 700,000 workers in Canada in private pension schemes.

Pension plans will be discussed at the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor here next month and it is possible that Health Minister Martin will discuss pensions at the labor meeting.

Rocks Smash Tribe, 11-4, In Hard-Checking Game

By JIM TANG
VANCOUVER, Aug. 27.—Victoria Shamrocks made it two straight and practically sewed up their best-of-five Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final series with North Shore Indians at Kerrisdale Arena here tonight by defeating the Tribe, 11-4, in a hard-checking, vicious-slaying game.

Shamrocks, with several players nursing injuries, including Len Scott who played tonight with an injured thumb, shoulder and leg, and Norm Baker, who received a leg injury, will be hoping to make it three straight at Memorial Arena Wednesday. Then they will be able to sit back and rest while they await the outcome of the New Westminster Commandos-Vancouver Combines series.

FINE DEFENSIVE SHOW
Indians, needing this game and hoping to take advantage of the smaller playing area, came out with the intent of cutting down the Shamrocks and checked viciously throughout, but could never take the lead as Rocks turned in a sterling defensive display. And then, their superior condition telling, Shamrocks turned the game into a rout with four goals within the space of two minutes and six seconds in the last three minutes of the game.

Indians received the best of the refereeing and got away with heavy stick-checking and at times it appeared that they were intent on causing deliberate injury.

THREE NEAR-FIGHTS
There were five penalties for checking on the head and three near-fights. Fight action saw Jack Byford and Arnie Ferguson in a skirmish in the second quarter, Bill Dickinson and Bill Andrews threatening a real scrap after Andrews was elbowed by the Indian coach while making a save, and a battle between Scott and Mario Crema near the end of the third period that produced the only major penalties.

Glen Johnson and Doug Hull received penalties seconds apart at the start of the third period—both for hitting Archie Browning on the head—but the advantage was partly nullified when Wally Henderson got a similar penalty for the same offense.

ANDREWS SOLID
The defensive play of Shamrocks was a standout. Andrews was solid in goal, particularly in the first and third periods. He may have turned the tide in the second quarter when he stopped Dickinson twice and Hull once with the score only 5-3 at the time.

Henderson, who played a solid game, opened the scoring with a screened bounce shot at 2:03. Norm Baker put the Rocks ahead to stay at 4:17 when his long screened shot counteracted a goal by Mario Crema a minute earlier. Norm Coates made it 3-1 on a pass from Duff McCaghey just 33 seconds after Baker's goal and Browning added another with a blazing under-hand shot at 6:09.

Browning's goal was the last for Shamrocks until 14:27 of the second period, culminating a scoreless period of 23 minutes and 18 seconds. In between, Bill Harris and Bill Stuart counted for Indians to leave them trailing, 3-5, at the half.

Coates scored the only goal of the third period with a shot that went in off Stan Joseph's pads. Ferguson, who was again a standout, boosted the margin to 7-3 with an over-the-shoulder shot at 2:46 before Byford tallied at 3:09 to break Andrews' shutout streak at 26 minutes and 51 seconds.

PRETIEST GOAL
Ferguson broke down the middle and took McCaghey's pass to score the prettiest goal of the game at the 12-minute mark. That took what little heart Indians had left and Shamrocks made it a rout with goals by Coates from Browning at 12:30, Monaghan unassisted at 13:11, and Henderson from Browning at 12:30.

Baker was viciously and unnecessarily slashed on the leg by Dickinson in the goal crease and was displaying a large welt after the game. The leg was stiffening and he may be a doubtful starter on Wednesday.

Victoria West football club will hold a workout at Beacon Hill Park tonight starting at 7. All last year's players and any others interested are invited to attend.

Not all Victorians were happy with the rain last night.

The downpour, which covered all of the northwest, probably cost Victoria Athletics a victory and a chance to gain on Wenatchee Chiefs in the battle for the fourth playoff berth in the W.I.L. They dropped a 6-3 rain-interrupted decision at Spokane.

The A's had a 3-0 lead over Spokane Indians and John Marshall and slim Jim Probst were riding a no-hitter when rain interrupted the game in the top of the fifth inning.

Probst was not the same after play restarted. He walked Kenny Richardson and Jim Brown, and Bill Sheets singled for the first hit off Probst to drive in the Spokane run. Again play was halted by rain.

Vanni opened the sixth against Probst with a single but was forced by Steve Mesner, Mel Wasley then doubled to score Mesner and Probst was taken out in favor of Bill Osborn.

Osborn gave up only two hits in the remaining innings but each base blow followed walks and figured in the seventh and advanced on Sheets' sacrifice, scoring on Jim Conant's pinch single. Richardson, Jim Venti and Brown walked in the eighth and Sheets hit a base-clearing double to give Osborn his second loss in as many games.

Salem trimmed Tri-City, 7-1, in the only other game to escape the weather. Vancouver and Tacoma were rained out enabling the Chiefs to gain half a game.

on the A's and the Indians to gain half a game on the Caps.

Meanwhile, Alan Strange, manager of the Indians, had protested the transfer to Vancouver of a game scheduled to be played in Wenatchee Saturday.

Vancouver, playing at home, won that game, picking up half a game in the league standings while a league-leading Spokane split a pair with Salem.

Robert Abel reported by long-distance phone to a Spokane newspaper that he approved the switch because of the larger "gate" that could be drawn at Vancouver. He said both Wenatchee and the Canadian club had requested the switch.

Strange contends Abel exceeded his authority in approving the switch. However, Abel said he believes he was within his rights but is "going to look through all the minutes of the league meetings to see if there is anything that prevents me from making the switch of playing sites."

Toronto's McCormick Scores Upset In First Tourney, Downing Weslock

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB, Aug. 27 (CP). — Johnston McCormick, six-foot four Toronto golfer who chain-smoked his way around the course, joined the Canadian amateur golf championship first round today with a sensational upset victory over Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont.

McCormick, never in the Canadian amateur before or any other major tournament, lasted out a grim struggle to win 1 up.

Weslock, one of Canada's top-notch golfers, threatened to overhaul the Humber Valley player with a great last-ditch effort that just fell short.

The undreamed-of upset climaxed another surprise-dealing blow earlier in the day.

CHAMPION TRIMMED

Ronnie Goring of the Ottawa Gatineau club, plastered a 5 and 3 shellacking on Doug Silverberg, last year Canada's junior champion and runner-up this year.

McCormick's opponent was tinged with excitement at the finish. The Toronto golfer almost lost a three-up lead on the last four holes but had enough left at the 18th to halve that one and hang on to his slender margin.

Bill Mawhinney, who defeated Weslock in the 1950 Canadian amateur final, had a first-round bye and because of a possible default may rest again tomorrow.

The seven-man American representation, lacking a big-name player, didn't fare so well. One had an extra-hole win and another a win by default. Three lost opening round matches and two had byes.

There were seven defaults.

Rain Gives Butler's Furmston Rest After Series Squared in Second Game

Victoria's long-overdue rainfall couldn't have come at a better time — at least, that's what Butler's Aces believe.

The weatherman washed out last night's scheduled, playoff game between the Aces and Pitzer & Nex, and in doing so gives the Aces a helping hand in the round when the two clubs meet in the third game of the series at Upper Central tonight at 6.15.

The layoff also allows Norm Martin, Gasmen's ace, a well-earned rest. Martin hurled Pitzer & Nex to victory in the first game of the series with a 10-0 performance and came to the relief during Sunday's game.

While the rain has indirectly helped the two clubs, it has left league officials at their wits' end. They have to complete the series before the weekend when the winner will meet the Mainland titlists in the coast final.

Sunday's contest went 11 scoreless innings as Furmston hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel with Cy Goggin and Martin.

BROKE DEADLOCK
Gasmen broke the deadlock in the top of the 12th. Chick Newman was safe on an error and went all the way to third as Furmston threw the ball into centre field while trying to get Newman at second on Martin's attempted sacrifice. Bernie Clarkson was purposely passed to fill the bases. Bill Reynolds forced Newman at the plate but Toad Garnet waited out a walk to force in Martin with the first run.

Furmston atoned for his error in the bottom of the 12th, with two out and runners on second and first, he lashed a single to left field to drive in Ronnie Benn with the tying run. Ray Byers charged the ball and it went through his legs permitting Mickey Smith to score all the way from first with the winning run.

League Raises Broadcast Ban

LONDON, Aug. 27 (Reuters). — Bowing to a storm of protests, the British Football League, ruling body of big-time professional soccer, today lifted its ban on the broadcast of its matches.

The league named representatives to work out details with officials of the B.B.C. which for years has carried descriptions of the games.

It is expected that the matches to be broadcast will not be announced until November, when fans will not be able to count on hearing play-by-play commentaries if they stay at home. The league complained that the commentaries hurt attendance.

Golf—Here's How

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Never start lifting the club-head away from the ball at the beginning of the swing. Swing

TOP OF THE BACK-SWING
DON'T lift it! If you break your wrists and lift the club it's impossible to get up smoothly to the top of the swing. And if you're out of position and feel awkward at the top, as you will if you start your club back by lifting it, you haven't much of a chance to really put a powerful, smooth stroke on that ball. When you are at the top of the swing your right leg will be braced so that you have a feeling — you shouldn't actually do it — of leaning into the ball. Then, when your left leg straightens, you will be set just as though you were on a firm, inverted V, foundation.

City, Chamber Plan Freight Rate Talks

Joint action by the city and the chamber of commerce for rail freight rate parity with Vancouver, will start from a September conference.

A meeting of the Vancouver chamber of commerce and the city freight rates committee is tentatively scheduled after Labor Day, George I. Warren, chamber secretary, said yesterday.

Duncan McRie, chairman of the chamber committee, will attend with E. W. Arnott, president of the chamber.

Spokesmen for the commerce group have pointed out that they would be satisfied with freight rate parity with Vancouver, enjoyed before the removal of the mountain differential July 1, 1949. They also say that some ocean shipping firms impose charges on goods shipped to Victoria above those to Vancouver.

Careless Driving Costs U.S. Tourist Fine of $50

Hugh F. Wade, an American tourist, yesterday was fined $50 and prohibited from driving in Canada for six months. He pleaded guilty in city police court to a charge of careless driving.

Police said Wade was spotted Saturday night driving at 60 to 65 miles an hour on Government Street. Headlights of the car were out and Wade was under the influence of alcohol, they said.

A $50 fine and four-month suspension of his driver's license were imposed upon Harold A. Johnson, 745 River Road, Alberni, who pleaded guilty to a dangerous driving charge. The offense took place Saturday night on Douglas Street when the accused was accused of traveling at about 57 miles an hour.

Harold B. Westover of the New England Hotel was remanded to Wednesday on a charge of stealing goods worth more than $25. Magistrate H. C. Hall asked for a probation officer's report, after Westover entered a plea of guilty.

Sisters Back Application For Rezoning

The Sisters of the Society of the Love of Jesus are supporting Patrick J. Sinnott's application for rezoning of 620 Seaford Street for industrial purposes.

In a letter to the city yesterday, Tait and Holmes, solicitors for the sisters, said the group's officials believe the community would be better served if the area was changed from residential to industrial.

It was contended the rezoning would increase in value and would establish a payroll.

City council today will consider a 450-signature petition from Victoria West residents protesting the rezoning because they say it is proposed to erect a sawmill on the property, which is situated on West Bay.

Mr. Sinnott and Sinclair Elliott, lawyers, own the property.

City's Contingency Fund Sagging Under Demands

The city's contingency fund continues to sag as more demands are made on it.

Starting at $45,000, the fund has decreased to $23,496.

There are still several unexpended items which may result in a further drain. One big question mark is the cost of the Royal visit. Others include electrical workers' wage increases, a survey of Redfern Playground and City Hall roof repair.

Last year the fund was $200 in connection with the B.C. Telephone rates case.

OTHER OUTLAY

Here is a list of other expenditures made from the contingency fund: survey of Goodacre Lake $143; appraisal of city-owned properties, $1,950; library expenditures, $1,821; building maintenance, $823; fire hose $2,000; indicator costs, $945; traffic signals $1,000; road work on Blanshard $1,500; Bowker Creek fencing $1,000; town plan-

City Will Foot Bill For Arena Survey

The City of Victoria, not the Memorial Arena Commission, will pay the cost of the "physical survey" of the $1,000,000 Blanshard Street structure.

The city also will pay for repairing any defects the survey shows up.

This is the gist of the finance committee recommendation which will go before city council today. The committee recommended the survey last week after a meeting with J. Carl Pendray, commission chairman, and H. W. Davey, K.C. member.

An investigation will be made of all structural defects. Where required, technical advice will be sought.

THREE BIG ITEMS

Condition of the arena floor, cracks in the arena's walls and the adequacy of electrical wiring are three of the big items requiring attention.

The task of investigating electrical wiring will be difficult because no plans are available showing the location of wiring. One of the complaints about the arena has been that there is no centralized control. There are switches all over the arena. A big need is a control board with a good view of the playing surface.

LIGHTS PROBLEM

Another problem is the servicing of the lights above the floor. At present the only method of servicing is by building a high scaffold. The solution here, according to some authorities, is to build a catwalk or make changes so the fixtures could be lowered by a winch.

City Will Investigate Hospital Milk Handling

The city sanitary department will investigate milk handling methods in all Victoria hospitals.

Dr. J. L. Cayton, city medical health officer, said yesterday the checks will be started very soon.

He contended they were routine. Attention was drawn to milk handling in city hospitals last week after the Union Board of Health received a sanitary inspector's report outlining unsatisfactory milk handling methods at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

It is understood inspection of nursing homes and private hospitals already has been carried out. St. Joseph's Hospital and Mount St. Mary's are expected to be checked next.

Meanwhile changes are being made at Royal Jubilee Hospital and new equipment has been ordered. Regular bacteria counts are being made.

The hospital investigation was made after the sanitary department received complaints that milk had been served to patients. The complaints were made during the recent hot weather.

The checkup of other institutions will be made by D. W. Wakefield, city milk inspector, who is a member of the sanitary department.

Doctorate Next Goal Of Young Historian

By JIM NESBITT

John Saywell, slight, dark haired at 22 a B.C. historian of some note, leaves shortly for Harvard, having been awarded one of the great university's rare and much prized fellowships.

To be a fellow of Harvard is to reach the top in North American education.

It's astonishing how much learning some people can pack into their heads in 22 years, how many scholarships they may gather how many academic medals they may take to their names.

John Saywell, when he gets tired of reading and writing, turns to museum tokens or takes to his bicycle for a spin along the waterfront. His road cleared, he returns to his books.

STUDIED UNDER FATHER

He was born in Westminster, Sask., moved to Cowichan Lake as a youngster. His father, John T. Saywell, is principal of the high school there and superintendent of Vancouver Island School District No. 66.

Jack studied in high school under his dad then came here to Victoria College. He went on to U.C. graduated with a double honours B.A. in history and political science. His honors essay was on the Melanesians. The topic in 1940 when Lieutenant Governor Thomas Melnes was appointed Joseph Martin as premier against the wishes of the Legislature. Melnes went to prosecute the House, but the members turned their backs on him, marched angrily and noisily from the chamber in the most extraordinary scene in our legislative history. Melnes refused to resign and Laurie dismissed him. He was one of two untenanted government ever to be tried.

The other, Louis Letourneau, de St. Just, Lieutenant Governor of Quebec in 1878.

TO GET M.A. SHORTLY

Saywell is now finishing the thesis which will give him his M.A. in a few days. Canada and the League of Nations sanctions. At ancient and aristocratic Harvard, on the banks of the St. Charles River, at Cambridge, across from Boston, Saywell will spend two or three years working for his Ph.D. in history. His doctoral dissertation will be The Position of a Lieutenant Governor in Canadian Affairs.

The prizes Saywell has piled up make an impressive list. When he graduated from high school at Cowichan he took four scholarships. In Victoria College he took more, including a major award for athletics, he being somewhat of a basketball star, and editor of the college paper. In his third year at U.C. he took the John and Annie Southcott Memorial scholarship for research in B.C. history. In his graduating year the Alan Boag Scholarship for the best essay on Socialism.

Saywell has done all sorts of odd jobs to put him through school, though, he says, "my parents have given me quite a bit of help." His modesty has brought him some dollars and he used to spend his summers sweating on Cowichan Lake log houses. The last two summers he has worked in Provincial Archives, writing a history of Similkameen and Bulkley Valleys for the government.

If he ever gets time to practice, he says he's going to take his degree in music from London Royal School of Music. He does that he'll be John Saywell, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., F.R.S.M. He studied violin under Maurice Kuchner of Vancouver.

"I blow on the saxophone and play the clarinet sometimes," he says. "When I was a kid I had a dance band called The Swanettes, played at Saturday night dances in small towns up Island. When I was in the army at Brandon I had a band and played the sax and the drums as well as the fiddle. When you have a band you must know how to play all the instruments."

INDUSTRIOUS WIFE

In addition to all his scholastic honors, Saywell has a wife, as handsome as his, Mrs. Patricia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Knutsen, 841 Carey Road. She is a teacher, has been at Charles Dickens school in Vancouver.

As industrious as her husband, she spent this summer studying stenography so she can take a job in a Boston office while her husband finishes himself in his books in the ivy covered halls of Harvard.

Work Will Begin Immediately on New School

Work will begin immediately on beautiful new Oak Bay Junior High School, to be built by Luney Brothers & Hamilton on Cadboro Bay Road next to present high school grounds. Sketch was made by architects James, Polson and Siddall. School will cost $602,000. Contract was signed yesterday with school board officials who have been given permission to use general school building funds to make up difference between actual cost and original estimate of $635,000.

Transfer of Funds Approved

Junior High to Be Built As Planned

Contract for the new Oak Bay Junior High School was officially signed today with Luney Brothers & Hamilton Ltd. who submitted a tender of $602,000.

Although the tender is nearly $300,000 higher than original estimates, a Greater Victoria school board spokesman said yesterday there was no reduction in plans for the building.

He said the provincial cabinet had authorized the transfer of funds from the general school building program to make up the difference.

ACCOMMODATES 500

The new school will be built adjacent to the present Oak Bay High School. With 14 classrooms, a gymnasium, an auditorium, library, music and art room the school will accommodate about 500 pupils.

A delay was caused in the building plans some months ago when Reeve P. A. Gibbs and the Oak Bay council held out for a concrete building by introducing a by-law which forbade new frame schools.

After a stalemate of several weeks and many consultations with the school board, the council finally rejected the by-law and accepted a frame and stone building.

The most recent delay resulted when it was learned the lowest tender was much higher than the appropriation.

Work will begin immediately, the school board spokesman said, and the school will probably be completed by September, 1952.

Child Escapes With Head Cut

A three-year-old girl narrowly missed death at the Esquimalt Clinic yesterday when she fell out of a moving truck and rolled under a moving car.

Police said the youngster was Margie Cooper, 2536 Shelbourne Street. She was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for a head cut.

The girl was a passenger in a truck driven by Dave Cooper, 3201 Douglas. Driver of the car which nearly ran over the child was Paul Carter, 1406 Balmoral, police said.

BOYS WARNED

Three young boys were cautioned by city police Monday after they were caught stealing vegetables from the garden of A. J. Pratt, 968 Balmoral Road.

Hoax Not Funny, Sailors Warned

AROUND TOWN

A twisted sense of humor was displayed by three sailors about 8:30 p.m. Sunday near the intersection of Douglas and Michigan Streets.

Mrs. Alla Stokes, 418 Uganda Street, was driving along Douglas when a group of sailors walked to the middle of the road and attempted to flag down the car. As the car passed them, one of the sailors fell onto the road and feigned being struck by the passing vehicle.

Mrs. Stokes immediately stopped her car and left the vehicle, to learn of the untimely hoax.

Dexler Charles Howell and Vincent Lawrence, came both from the destroyer Huron and Howard Thomas Russell were taken to the city police station, warned about their actions, then turned over to the naval shore patrol.

The city yesterday received an offer of help in making preparations for the Royal visit in October.

The I.O.O.F. Municipal Chapter offered its services. In a letter to the council, Iva Lundgren, secretary, said:

"The Royal visit committee can be assured that they can call on us at any time in any capacity."

Start Building

Construction of the foundation of the new $93,194 White Cane Service Centre on Blanshard Street is now under way, architects Nichols & Di Castri announced yesterday.

Contract for the unit, which is expected to be complete next spring, was awarded to Commonwealth Construction.

Phil S. Hanna, feature editor for the Victoria Daily News, visited the Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

He recently had published an article in a journal of Canada's west coast.

Youths Nabbed

Four city youths, between 11 and 16, may face action in juvenile court after being caught by city police Sunday night throwing pennies into Greater Victoria Bay, B.C. Park.

The boys had also done considerable damage by trampling through large flower beds in the park area. They were taken to the police station, detained and released. The cases, juvenile officer will be consulted to determine what a fine may be levied against the offenders.

Horace R. Paul, R.R. 1, Saanich, appeared at a speed setting of Saanich police court yesterday, pleading on a drunken driving charge. He was remanded to Thursday.

Saanich Residents Hazy In Fire Protection Views

By EILEEN LEAROLD

A cry of "fire" probably would raise nothing but eyebrows in Saanich and Central Saanich these days.

Residents of the two municipalities didn't seem much concerned about fires in either area yesterday when they were asked how they felt about a recent incident in which Central Saanich helped to put out a house fire in Saanich.

A few days before that fire the Saanich fire department had refused aid to Central Saanich under similar circumstances.

Two residents of Saanich questioned last night didn't even know when municipality chosen.

They had no strong opinions on which department fought fires or where.

One woman resident of Saanich thought fires on the border line of the two districts should be extinguished by both fire departments, but she didn't think out-of-the-way fires in central Saanich should be attended by the Saanich fire department.

And vice versa.

ALL RIGHT ON BORDER

"I don't see," she said, "why we in Saanich should send a lot of expensive equipment into Central Saanich. Of course if the fire was near the border, not too far away, then it would be all right to help."

Residents should not have to go too far from their houses, she said.

She didn't expect that Central Saanich had helped to extinguish a house fire but when told that it was very good of them.

TOO INVOLVED

Another resident of Saanich and four of Central Saanich thought perhaps something should be done about mutual aid and fire insurance.

A woman residing in Central Saanich said she had not thought much about fire protection one way or the other.

"Can't say I think about it at all," she said.

No Deliveries On Labor Day

There will be no regular mail delivery Labor Day, Postmaster J. R. Sinclair announced yesterday.

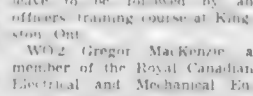

Post office workers will be open from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. and the public lobby until 6 p.m.

Special deliveries, some mail receipt and dispatch of mails will be usual.

Comes Home From Korea For Course

A Langford warrant officer has arrived home from the Korean battle zone in 10 days leave to be followed by an officers' training course at King's College.

WO2 Gregor MacKenzie, a member of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, greeted his wife and four-year-old son Rodrick last night.

WO2 GREGOR MACKENZIE

Friday following a Canadian Pacific Airlines flight from Japan.

He was one of five men picked from the front as likely officers' material. They are the first to be chosen under a system used in both world wars.

The candidates were chosen by a special board headed by Lieut. Col. A. J. R. Bates of Duncan.

FIRST VICTORY

WO2 MacKenzie is believed to be the first man from the Victoria area to arrive back from active service in Korea. He declined comment on fighting conditions.

However, he said members of the 25th Brigade were being trained well but anxious to go home.

Wholesale Prices Of Vegetables Fall

Tumbling prices marked the wholesale vegetable markets yesterday. Drops of from $5 to $20 a ton were recorded.

Imports from Alberta cut cabbage prices $20 a ton and carrots $8 a ton. Parsnips dropped $20 a ton.

Weak U.S. markets caused a $5000 drop in onion prices the second in two weeks, wholesalers reported.

Local tomatoes, potatoes and beans, however, are in good supply.

The fruit market remained firm as Okanagan Valley fruit has arrived, ranging from $2.00 to $2.75 a box. Bananas are plentiful. Blackberries are expected to arrive by Labor Day.

Wild blueberries are not available. Pickers have been scarce to enter picking areas because of the forest fire.

Okanagan cantaloupes are in season at from 12¢ to 20¢ each, depending on size. Local plums will be available soon as will apricot fruit.

Meanwhile, butternuts, reported to price $anges and no effect from size of harvest in Victoria.

Municipal Protest Losing Supporters

MUNICIPAL opposition to the B.C. Telephone Company's request for an increase in rates may be losing support.

Many in the opposition ranks are dropping out, according to a spokesman for the B.C. Telephone Association. The association is a group of telephone companies in the province.

For many years, the B.C. Telephone Association has been a strong supporter of the B.C. Telephone Company's request for an increase in rates.

But now, the association is losing support. Many of its members are dropping out of the association.

A spokesman for the association said that the association is still a strong supporter of the B.C. Telephone Company's request for an increase in rates.

NEW IN VICTORIA RECORDS

On Sale Across Canada

A new record went on sale in music stores throughout Canada yesterday.

Victoria women composed songs for both sides of the new recording. The Hometowners backing is by Victoria's Hometowners.

Cathie Southern, 215 Suzanne Place, wrote words and music for "Happy Trails," which is sung by Bob McGill of the Hometowners. Billie Rogers, Knight Street, authored "Whispering Waves," which is sung by Fred Usher.

Cathie Southern has been writing songs from three songs which is her first time to be published. Another, "Blue Jeans and Cowboy Boots," is being recorded by a Toronto firm for release soon.

Billie Rogers collaborates on recordings with her mother, Mrs. Ethel Moore, and her sister Eileen.

Mrs. Moore composes the music and Billie and Eileen write the lyrics and take care of business details.

Cathie Southern was born in Victoria. The Moores are fourth generation Victorians.

The team of Rogers, Moore & Moore, like Mrs. Southern, also have another recording being published in Toronto. It is entitled "Echo Trail."

"Echo Trail" was first plugged by the Hometowners. Rogers, Moore & Moore had three offers for it.

Their success hasn't stopped there. They have been offered an audition on the NBC TV and radio show "Songs For Sale," which originates from New York.

Cathie Southern feels very happy about the future, too, for Roy Rogers is interested in her song, "Blue Jean and Cowboy Boots." *

Both women feel that the renditions of their songs by Fred Usher and his Hometowners have a great deal to do with their swift success.

"Our music," said Billie Rogers, "is typically B.C. in expression. We try to bring the feel of the forests and rivers and mountains into it. The Hometowners have put it across so well and, of course, we think they are wonderful people."

Theatre Seats For Visit Pose Problem

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27 (CP)—Where will Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh sit at the command performance of the Winnipeg Ballet, scheduled in connection with their visit here in October?

This was the question posed today with preparations under way for the performance in Winnipeg's Auditorium.

There is, no royal box in the big theatre. Nearest thing is the governor's box adjoining the side of the stage—but it has only been used by photographers, prompters and stage hands.

The alternative is special chairs in front of the stage. It is an unwritten rule that nobody sits in front of royalty.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, with former Los Angeles quarterback Glenn Dobbs masterminding a brilliantly methodical attack, yesterday ran roughshod over Edmonton Eskimos for a 23-0 shutout win and undisputed first place in the Western Football Union.

At Winnipeg, the defending champion Blue Bombers won their first game in two league starts, dumping the hapless Calgary Stampeders 34-21. Sharp-shooting Indian Jack Jacobs, who scored one touchdown and passed for three others, bested Calgary's Keith Spaith in a thrilling aerial duel.

Parkins Joins All-Canada XI

Ted Parkins of Victoria has again been named to the all-Canada cricket team which will play the Marylebone Cricket Club in the second test match at Calcutta September 2 and 3.

Four changes have been made in the Canadian team. Robin Johnston of Vancouver is unable to make the trip, and Stan Hansen and George Nugent of Vancouver and Peter Cullimore of Edmonton have been dropped. They will be replaced by Aubrey Edwards and Peter Snell of Christchurch, Ed Burn of Winnipeg and Ted Smythe of Vancouver.

Basil Robinson of Ottawa was again captain of the Canadian team in the Calgary match and also the third test at Toronto September 1, 8 and 9.

The team for the Calcutta match is Robinson, Tom Brasher (Vancouver), Bill Hendy (Vancouver), Smythe, Parkins, Al Percival (Toronto), Brian Crist (Toronto), Mel Bilstone (Montreal), Burn, Edwards and Snell. Brian Spooner of Alberta is 12th man.

Fine Imposed For Causing Disturbance

DUNCAN, Aug. 27.—Charged with causing a disturbance at the Hill dance hall Saturday night by demanding admission when he had been refused, Norman George Powlow was fined $50 and costs or two months in jail.

In a second case, police testified that John Jewla failed to signal a left-hand turn on the Island Highway, and $150 damage was caused to a following vehicle in the resulting accident. Jewla was fined $15 and costs or one week in jail.

Both cases came before Stipendiary Magistrate G. A. Tiddall. Pleading guilty to a dangerous driving charge, Sigurd Hoem was fined $50 and costs. Police evidence was that Hoem drove in the left-hand traffic lane and forced an approaching car to take the

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - By Howard Garis

BUNTY'S DOLL.

Everyone aboard Uncle Wiggily's raft was very much excited, looking at the white-headed eagle on top of the mast. So no one paid much attention to Uncle Buttery who had just been rescued from the storm that was now over.

"Why did that eagle come to rest on the raft mast, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Bunty as she cuddled her doll Priscilla in her paws.

"Maybe he was tired because he had to fly through the storm," said Mr. Longears.

"Couldn't he just as well have perched on a tree in the woods?" Bunty wanted to know.

"I suppose he could," answered the rabbit gentleman. "But he seemed to like my raft better. He will do no harm up there."

"Aren't big eagles like this one dangerous?" asked Bunty as she held more tightly to her doll.

"Yes, I suppose they are, if they could get at you," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "But this eagle will not come at any of us, Bunty."

"I hope not," said the orphan rabbit. "Why is his head so white? Is he wearing a cap?"

"No, those are white feathers on top of his head," explained Buster. Being a Rabbit Scout, he knew something about birds.

"This is called a bald-headed eagle, Bunty. And I know why he perched on the mast."

"Why did he, Buster?" Bunty wanted to know.

"He wants to look down into Frog Pond for a fish," replied the Rabbit Scout.

"Does a big eagle like this one eat fish?" Bunty inquired.

"Bald-headed eagles love fish," said Buster. "Though I guess they would catch small animals, like chickens and ducks, if they had the chance. Watch him! He is turning around and around on top of the mast. I guess he is looking for a fish."

As they all watched the bald-headed eagle, Uncle Buttery came prancing out of his cabin, chewing on a piece of Swiss cheese.

"Now, Wiggy," he bleated. "I'll tell you why I jumped into the small boat and put off into Frog Pond."

"Was this eagle chasing you, Pat?" asked Mr. Longears.

"No, Wiggy. This is the first I've seen of the eagle. No, what made me jump in the small boat was pirates."

"Pirates, Pat Buttery. There were no pirates."

"I know it now, Wiggy. But when I heard that first clap of thunder, I thought it was pirates shooting at the raft. I can't stand pirates. So I jumped into the small boat, loosened the rope and the wind took me out to Frog Pond. Then the wind blew, I saw the lightning, the rain came and I knew it wasn't pirates but thunder that I had heard. But I couldn't get back to the raft until Bosun rescued me. I guess I was sort of silly, wasn't I, Wiggy?"

"You surely were, Pat Buttery. But it's all right now."

"Look! Look at the eagle!"

shouted Buster. "He's diving into Frog Pond after a fish!"

"They all saw the eagle fly off mast and dive down into the water. In a moment he came up. He held a wiggling fish in his claws. Then, with his fish dinner, the eagle flew toward the woods."

"I'm glad he's gone," said Bunty, hugging her doll.

After the storm, the weather turned fine. The sail on the raft was hoisted and began moving over Frog Pond. The children came out on deck to play. Bosun started the Merry-Go-Round. Nurse Jane made candy and popped more corn.

Bunty put her doll Priscilla down on a bench and had a ride on the Merry-Go-Round. But when Bunty got off and went to get her doll, Priscilla wasn't there.

"Who took my doll?" asked the orphan rabbit. "She's gone!"

Where was Bunty's doll? Who took Priscilla? Perhaps you can guess. But if you can't, and if the teaspoon doesn't take the apple out of the dumpling and put in a peach to make a strawberry shortcake, I will tell you Monday's story.

Breaking Raindrop Fall Advocated by Engineer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP).—A navy engineer says raindrops pack the punch of an atomic bomb.

Drop by drop, he says, they are blasting North America into the sea.

W. D. Ellison says floods occur and farm land is damaged by rain because most soil conservation is aimed at preventing damage from running water, with dams, terraces and contour plowing.

Ellison says the emphasis should be placed on preventing rain from striking earth with full force.

Even in a gentle rain, he said, the millions of drops in one storm strike earth with the combined force of it bomb.

REMEDY SIMPLE

The remedy, according to Ellison, is a simple one. It is to keep the land covered heavily with grass, crops, brush, trees, even weeds.

He has close-up, slow-motion moving pictures showing how blades of plants life break rain's full force. Each drop is scattered into many tiny droplets. They trickle gently downward to the roots of plants and thence into the soil. Eventually they reach nature's great underground storage reservoirs and may be held there for use in a day of drought, Ellison says.

The navy engineer, who worked more than 20 years on soil conservation investigations for the United States Department of Agriculture, says that when land is covered with plants it is like a giant sponge that can absorb many storms.

But when it is denuded of vegetation, he says, land is like a great concrete cover. When rain strikes it rolls off, forms sheets of water rushing downhill into rivers that swell to flood crests.

COSTLY DAMAGE

But while flood damage to houses and bridges is spectacular, even more costly damage is done to the land itself, Ellison says—valuable humus and minerals are churned up into mud and float away, with the heavier parts, like sand, remaining behind.

Ellison acknowledges many soil conservation methods now in use, such as contour farming and terracing, are good as far as they go, but he says:

"They are of little value as water savers in heavy rainstorms. About all they do is to prevent runoff water from carving gullies. The valuable, light parts of the soil float away with floodwaters that roll on and on."

"The trouble with my theory, from the viewpoint of many conservationists, is that it involves nothing spectacular or dramatic, like the construction of great dams and canals—only a drop of rain and a blade of grass."

Ellison doesn't say that the farming methods he champions would have prevented all of the high water that has occurred in the Missouri and other mid-western river basins this summer.

NEED LOWER DAMS

He believes dams and contour farming were necessary. But he says the dams wouldn't have to be so large or so numerous if more water was held back on the soil by vegetation.

He estimates that in the Great Plains country it takes from 2,000 to 3,000 pounds of grass on each acre to protect range lands from raindrop damage. A great deal of this land has less than 1,000 pounds of grass per acre today.

His experiments indicate that after land is covered with from 2,000 to 3,000 pounds of grass per acre it has reached almost maximum protection from rain.

GRASS COVER

Ellison believes the grass cover on pastures could be increased sufficiently if fewer livestock were allowed on them for a season or two, providing moisture conditions meanwhile were good.

On other lands, where crops are raised, Ellison says if more care were taken to keep the ground covered at all times of the year it would make a great ing storms. If crops can't be kept on land at all times of the year he says the trash from previous crops, such as stubble from wheat and stalks from corn, should be left on the surface and not plowed under.

Metals Strike Paralyzes U.S. Smelters

DENVER, Aug. 27 (INS).—At least 38,000 non-ferrous metal workers walked off their jobs today, paralyzing the output of critical defense minerals.

The number was increasing steadily as President Truman called for a back to work movement.

Headquarters of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' at Denver, key labor group in the tie-up, reported at mid-afternoon that telegrams calling for the men to return to work had not been received.

A union spokesman added that there would be no comment on the telegram until after it was received.

Mine-Mill president John Clark said the tie-up, planned for two weeks while negotiations continued on wage demands, was 100 per cent effective. Seventy Mine-Mill locals struck western operations of the big four of the copper industry—Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting and Refining, and Phelps Dodge Corp., and in most centres allied A.F.L. unions joined the walkout.

In Montana, 9,500 employees of Anaconda, 5,000 of them at Butte, were off the job. Three thousand picketed Kennecott in Utah and another 1,500 unionists refused to cross their lines. Thirty companies in Idaho were struck, idling 5,000; 4,000 were out in Arizona, and smaller groups struck in 11 states from California to Connecticut.

Thirteen days are required for the ocean trip to transport Bethlehem steel iron ore from Venezuela, twice as long as for the Duluth-Lake Erie trip.

Culbertson on Bridge

(Copyright, 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

It is a pretty good working rule that when partners have a 4-4 fit in a major suit—one of them holding perhaps the A-K-x-x and the other Q-J-x-x—that suit should be selected as trumps in preference to another suit, particularly a minor, in which there is greater combined length. The principle gains extra force at match-point duplicate when the 4-4 fit is a major and the other suit a minor.

There are, however, important exceptions to this working principle, and the North-South hands

Obviously, if the trumps had been drawn to stop this ruff, South would have been left with one or two losing clubs.

Contrast this result with the easy play for six-diamond contracts and it appears that the various Norths carried a good principle too far. In view of the club void and the presumption that several clubs would have to be ruffed, it was vital to select the longest combined trump suit, and thus it would have been a very good idea for North to raise diamonds vigorously and for South to accept the minor suit suggestion.

At most of the eight tables in play, North-South ended up at six hearts via some such bidding as the following:

In no case was the contract fulfilled. The usual opening lead by West was the club ace, and although this could be ruffed in dummy, the various declarers soon found themselves in trouble. They could not ruff two more clubs while maintaining rigid control on all fronts, and when they led a diamond for the dual purpose of establishing the suit and gaining entry to the closed hand, West promptly returned a diamond for his partner to ruff.

FIRE HAZARD

We are now living through the greatest forest fire hazard in recorded history because of the unusually dry weather.

Few forest fires would happen but for man's carelessness, resulting in fire-blackened acres of valuable timber country and wasted years of superb growth.

Average fire loss is 300,000,000 board feet of timber per year, costing millions of dollars.

British Columbia depends for 53% of its livelihood on timber resources. Last year the value of timber production amounted to $468,000,000.

Publisher Sketches B.C. Boom

Almost a billion dollars is currently being spent on industrial development in British Columbia, publisher Stuart Keate said yesterday in a talk entitled "B.C. Means Boom Country."

Speaking to a joint meeting of the Gyro Club and Chamber of Commerce directors, at which nine provincial agriculture ministers and their delegates were guests, he said B.C. was riding the crest of a great industrial revolution, "one that seemed to arrive overnight and in which street-corner talk of multi-million-dollar projects has become almost commonplace."

He cited the great Alcan project at Kitimat, the $225,000,000 investment in B.C. pulp and paper mills, and the $10,000,000 newsprint mill being built at Duncan Bay.

"B.C. is emerging as one of the richest and most sought-after pieces of real estate in the world," he continued. The United States, looking abroad for capital outlets, is finding them in British Columbia.

Shipyard Workers Win 25-Cent Wage Increase

Some 300 workers at Yarrow's Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot shipyards have won a general 25-cent hourly wage boost, five additional paid statutory holidays and higher holiday pay.

The new contract is retroactive to July 1, the Joint Shipyard Council announced last night. It is expected to set the pattern for workers employed in the navy yard.

The gains leave workers with a total of eight paid statutory holidays. Four per cent of their annual earnings will be paid for holidays.

ASK INCREASES

Meanwhile boosts are being sought by at least 400 Victorians, union officials said yesterday.

Negotiations for an unstated interim wage boost are expected to be resumed soon by the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) and the B.C. Electric Railway Co. About 300 Victoria employees are affected.

Conciliation is expected between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.-T.L.C.), representing 100 workers here, and the B.C. Elec-

Scots at Valcartier Want Island Totem

By TREVOR COLLINS
Members of "E" Company of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) now in training with the 27th Brigade at Valcartier, Que., are looking for a British Columbia (Vancouver Island preferred) totem pole.

During the Second World War the Canadian Scottish carried a totem pole, which was set up in front of the battalion orderly room.

Almost on the eve of its departure for Europe, the Vancouver Island unit suddenly remembered it had no totem pole.

"Do you know where we could get one about four feet high to go outside our own company office?" an officer asked in a recent letter to The Colonist. "BEST IN QUALITY"

No other company in the battalion has one, the officer said. "It would be something to put our unit's name further to the front than it is. Although the smallest in number, we are the best in quality."

The company has settled down to a regular training routine which includes firing practice with live ammunition.

Ptes. A. Y. Downie and J. H. Pridge are attending a driving school for gun carriers and Ptes. J. A. Blair, O. W. Frazee, K. J. Mitchell, G. W. Porthier and L. G. White a driving course for other motor vehicles.

PROMOTIONS

Five men have been promoted since the unit arrived at Valcartier. Promoted to lance corporals are D. J. Best, D. A. Coddington, W. C. Copley, K. F. McKenna and G. E. McLaren.

Recently CSM. C. J. Smith and QSM. C. F. Sluggatt attended a morning service in the cathedral at Quebec City. They were the first to meet Very Rev. R. L. Seaborn, who was pastor of the Canadian Scottish during the Second World War. The dean returned with them to camp and had dinner with the officers.

The next Sunday Major Douglas Gillan, Capt. Royce Marshall and Lieut. Howard Schoening attended evensong at the cathedral and had dinner with the dean.

Early Resident To Be Given Masonic Rites

Funeral services for George William Morton-Mardell, a resident of Victoria since 1899, who died at his home, 2184 Kenmore Road, yesterday, will be held under the auspices of Victoria and Columbia Lodge No. 1, A.F. and A.M., at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Born in London 80 years ago, Mr. Morton-Mardell joined the Royal Navy in 1891 and arrived in Victoria eight years later aboard H.M.S. Warspite.

He transferred to the Esquimalt navy yard in 1900 and in 1913 joined the crew of the dredger Mudlark. Two years later he took over as chief engineer at the Bay Street Armory.

There he was well known to hundreds of Victoria reserve and active force soldiers.

In 1940 he retired. He had since been active in his hobby of raising roses.

He is survived by his widow, Ethel May, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Frere, Victoria; a brother, Joseph, McKeesport, Pa.; and one grandson, Allan Buckle of Victoria.

Set $14,000,000 As Cost For Power Plans in 1951

Work in progress and a tentative expansion program during the present fiscal year will require a $14,000,000 expenditure, the B.C. Power Commission announced yesterday.

Various projects, now under construction or completed, will require about $3,300,000 capital outlay. The fiscal year's program, some of which remains to be submitted to the government for final approval, envisages new works totaling in excess of $11,000,000.
